Certain factors, including family history, may increase your chance of developing cancer. Memorial Sloan Kettering recognizes the importance of assessing your cancer risk and of detecting the disease early, when there is the greatest chance of a cure.

If you have a history of cancer in your family, we can provide information about hereditary cancer and genetics. Our Clinical Genetics Service has specially trained genetic counselors and physicians who can discuss ways to minimize your cancer risk as much as possible.

Screening is also an essential part of cancer care and prevention. Our doctors have developed screening guidelines for the most common cancers — breast, lung, cervical, colorectal, head and neck, ovarian, prostate, and skin cancer — based upon our experience treating patients at Memorial Sloan Kettering. We also offer many screening services at our state-of-the-art facilities in Manhattan and at our regional sites in the tri-state area.

In addition, our researchers have pioneered the use of cancer prediction tools to help patients and physicians decide among the major treatment choices for several cancers.

Genetic Counseling and Genetic Testing for Hereditary Cancer at MSK

Genetic counseling and genetic cancer risk assessment are an important part of cancer care. Learn how Memorial Sloan Kettering's genetic counselors, doctors, and researchers guide people through the process of genetic testing and cancer risk assessment.

Screening Guidelines

Cancer screening tests are recommended at certain baseline ages to detect cancer in its earliest and most treatable stages. Learn more about Memorial Sloan Kettering's recommended screening guidelines by cancer type.
