Education

PhD, Rutgers University

Dr. Smita C. Banerjee is Member at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, as well as an Attending Behavioral Scientist in the Behavioral Sciences Service, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences in New York, New York.

Prior to joining the faculty of Memorial Sloan Kettering, Dr. Banerjee received a BS in Home Science from Delhi University, India (1996), MS in Communication Media for Children from Srimati Nathibai Damodar Thakersey (S.N.D.T.) University, India (1998), and PhD in Health Communication from Rutgers University (2005).

Dr. Banerjee's research focuses on the science of effective healthcare delivery, and to gain a better understanding of communication between patients and healthcare providers using both observational and interventional methods. As a member of the research faculty of the Communication Skills (Comskil) Training and Research Laboratory, she serves as an educator and collaborative investigator supporting the Comskil Training Program, an intensive didactic and experiential training effort for MSKCC residents, fellows, nurses, and attendings focusing on common challenges faced in communication with cancer patients and their families. She is currently co-leading a national multi-site trial to promote de-stigmatizing interactions with oncology care providers treating patients diagnosed with lung cancer. She has authored more than 100 articles in journals including Patient Education and Counseling, Translational Behavioral Medicine, and Journal of Health Communication. Dr. Banerjee has received research grant funding from the National Cancer Institute, National Institute on Drug Abuse, and the American Cancer Society.

Disclosures

Members of the MSK Community often work with pharmaceutical, device, biotechnology, and life sciences companies, and other organizations outside of MSK, to find safe and effective cancer treatments, to improve patient care, and to educate the health care community. These activities outside of MSK further our mission, provide productive collaborations, and promote the practical application of scientific discoveries.

MSK requires doctors, faculty members, and leaders to report ("disclose") the relationships and financial interests they have with external entities. As a commitment to transparency with our community, we make that information available to the public. Not all disclosed interests and relationships present conflicts of interest. MSK reviews all disclosed interests and relationships to assess whether a conflict of interest exists and whether formal COI management is needed.

Smita C. Banerjee discloses the following relationships and financial interests:
