About Me

What I Do at MSK

- Director, Pediatric Radiation Oncology

Get To Know Me

Since 1998, I have been the Director of Pediatric Radiation Oncology on the MSK Kids team who cares for children and young adults with cancer. I am a member of the pediatric, ophthalmic, and bone marrow transplant disease management teams at MSK and work very closely with other doctors in these specialties.

I have extensive experience treating rare diseases in young people such as sarcomas, brain tumors, neuroblastoma, Wilms' tumor, lymphoma, and leukemia. Radiation therapy is an extremely powerful tool for these tumors, but young patients are especially sensitive to long-term side effects. I therefore approach each patient as a unique individual, carefully designing a highly customized radiation therapy plan to maximize the benefits of treatment while minimizing side effects.

I am a leader in the use of targeted approaches such as proton therapy, intensity-modulated radiation therapy, image-guided radiation therapy, and intra-operative radiation therapy for pediatric cancers.

Disclosures

Doctors and faculty members often work with pharmaceutical, device, biotechnology, and life sciences companies, and other organizations outside of MSK, to find safe and effective cancer treatments, to improve patient care, and to educate the health care community.

MSK requires doctors and faculty members to report (“disclose”) the relationships and financial interests they have with external entities. As a commitment to transparency with our community, we make that information available to the public.

Suzanne L. Wolden discloses the following relationships and financial interests:
