How to Take Pictures of Your Breasts for Your Healthcare Provider

This information will help you take pictures of your breast(s) wound or incision (surgical cut) to show your healthcare provider. Sending clear pictures will help your healthcare provider see how you're healing or if there are any problems with the area. You may need to have someone help you take these pictures.

Take Pictures from 5 Different Views

Take your pictures from 5 different views to help your healthcare provider see and understand the size of the area. Stand about 2 feet (0.6 meters) away from the camera for each picture.

Tips for Taking Pictures

The tips in this section will help you take better pictures to share with your healthcare provider.

It's best to take the pictures in the same place with the same lighting and background each time. This helps your healthcare provider compare them to one another.

Set up the background

Make sure there's no clutter in the background of your picture. A solid-color background will make your pictures clearer. If you don't have solid-color background, hang a solid-color bed sheet or cloth and use it as a background for your pictures.

Plan the lighting

- Set up the tripod or camera stand, if you're using one.
- Turn on the flash on your camera. The flash will give you the light you need.
- Make sure light is shining directly on the area you're taking a picture of. If something is in the way of the light, it can cause shadows in the picture. Make sure there aren't any shadows on your breasts.

- Point the camera directly at the area you're taking a picture of.
- Hold the camera still while taking the picture.
- If you're using your phone, look at the area you're taking a picture of on the screen. Tap the screen to make your camera focus.
- When you're ready, take the pictures. Remember to take all the views your healthcare provider asked for.
- Check each picture to make sure they're clear. If any of your pictures look blurry or don't show the right area, take that picture again. Don't edit the picture.
