Ask about your medications

You may need to stop taking certain medications before your surgery. Talk with your healthcare provider about all the medications you're taking, including prescription and over-the-counter medications, patches, and creams. Follow their instructions about medications you must stop taking before your surgery.

Other medications are important to take on schedule, even during your treatment. You may be able to take them the morning of your surgery, if needed. Follow your healthcare provider's instructions about medications you must keep taking the day of surgery.

Ask about fasting (no food or drink)

Before your surgery, you may have sedation or anesthesia (medication to make you sleep). If so, you must have nothing to eat or drink before your surgery. Follow your healthcare provider's instructions for what time you must stop eating and drinking.

For more instructions about eating, drinking, and medications, read Getting Ready for Surgery.
