People facing the challenges of cancer survivorship can access a variety of support services through our Adult Survivorship Program.

Counseling and Support

People who cope with KS and AIDS can have unique psychological and social needs. Our team of psychiatrists, psychologists, and social workers can help address any psychological, social, or practical needs that you or your family might encounter during your cancer care. Sexual Health and Fertility

Memorial Sloan Kettering's comprehensive care of people with KS and other AIDS-related cancers includes physicians, nurses, psychologists, and social workers with expertise in treating sexual health issues that can arise after treatment. Learn more about our sexual health support services.

Integrative Medicine

Integrative medicine complements mainstream medical care by addressing a variety of physical and emotional symptoms associated with cancer and its treatment. Memorial Sloan Kettering's Integrative Medicine Service offers a number of therapies including various types of massage, acupuncture, hypnotherapy, meditation, visualization and other mind-body therapies, music therapy, and nutritional counseling, as well as classes such as yoga, tai chi, and chair aerobics.

Help for Older Patients

Cancer is a challenge for anyone, regardless of age. But if you're over 65, you may face challenges unique to your age group. At MSK, we're committed to providing cancer patients of all ages with the treatment, facilities, and support they need.

Your treatment team will include healthcare professionals who have the specialized training and experience to effectively treat older patients. Every aspect of your care — diagnosis, treatment, recovery, support — will be tailored to meet your particular needs.
