The RNAi Core is directed by Ralph Garippa, PhD. Dr. Garippa was previously affiliated with Roche Discovery Technologies. In his tenure there, he established and directed their cell-based high-throughput screening and high-content facilities. He also helped to establish collaborations in the area of stem cell technologies. He earned his PhD degree in Pharmacology from Columbia University, College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Disclosures

Doctors and faculty members often work with pharmaceutical, device, biotechnology, and life sciences companies, and other organizations outside of MSK, to find safe and effective cancer treatments, to improve patient care, and to educate the health care community.

MSK requires doctors and faculty members to report (“disclose”) the relationships and financial interests they have with external entities. As a commitment to transparency with our community, we make that information available to the public.

Ralph Garippa discloses the following relationships and financial interests:

No disclosures meeting criteria for time period

The information published here is for a specific annual disclosure period. There may be differences between information on this and other public sites as a result of different reporting periods and/or the various ways relationships and financial interests are categorized by organizations that publish such data.

This page and data include information for a specific MSK annual disclosure period (January 1, 2022 through disclosure submission in spring 2023). This data reflects interests that may or may not still exist. This data is updated annually.
