Chanel Endowment for Survivorship Research

Beginning in 2006, an endowment provided by Chanel to the Memorial Sloan Kettering Survivorship Program has provided funding to junior investigators for well-designed, novel clinical and basic studies focused on medical aspects of cancer survivorship. The request for applications is issued every other year, and two to three grants of $75,000 each are awarded. All applications are peer-reviewed for outstanding scientific merit by a panel of survivorship researchers.

Goldstein Awards

Since 2004 the Arnold and Arlene Goldstein Family Foundation has generously funded two awards each year, up to a maximum of $50,000 each. The Goldstein funds are designated to support work by PSRP investigators, and topics may include de novo investigations using human subjects, detailed analyses of existing databases, or laboratory studies with translational potential.
