

Graft-Versus-Host Disease - Prevention & Treatment

We hope you can join us for this informative virtual program!

FEATURING:

Doris M. Ponce, MD

Hematologic Oncologist
Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center

PROGRAM:

Please join LLS and Dr. Doris M. Ponce for a free virtual education program for patients and their families about Graft-versus-host disease (GVHD).

Dr. Ponce has a clinical expertise in allogeneic hematopoietic stem cell transplantation, graft-versus-host disease and cord blood grafts. Her particular interest is in investigating new strategies to make transplantation safer and more effective. Participants will learn about GVHD- specifically, who can get GVHD, how to identify the symptoms, how GVHD can be prevented, and treatment and management of this side-effect.

In addition to learning about GVHD, participants will learn about the resources available in their community and those provided by The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society. We encourage you to invite your caregiver and family members.
