FOURTH ANNUAL DERMATOLOGIC CARE IN ONCOLOGY SYMPOSIUM

TARGET AUDIENCE

This course is directed towards Dermatologists, Oncologists, and Oncology Nurses.

COURSE OVERVIEW

Chemotherapy, radiation, surgery, and therapeutic transplants have resulted in remarkable improvements in patient survival. Despite this remarkable success, the majority of patients treated with these drugs will develop dermatologic adverse events, which lead to decreased quality of life and inconsistent antineoplastic therapy, both of which may affect clinical outcome. Therefore, attentive dermatological care is critical for the optimization of anticancer therapies.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

1. Recognize impact on quality of life and clinical characteristics of dermatologic adverse events to therapies in cancer.
2. Understand mechanisms involved in dermatologic adverse events to therapies in cancer.
3. Discuss mechanistically-based interventions to improve quality of life and decrease toxicity in cancer patients.
